The power of an army depends on the discipline, the patriotism and the equipments of a soldier. 'Tis the same with the Farmers' Union.

Did you ever have a brain storm? Well be sure and get off to yourself so you won't blow against some one and get hurt.

What is the use in putting every thing of and just let things happen? It is a heap more pleasant to make things happen.—Union Farmer.

Just what you are, so is that much of the Farmers' Union. Are you any good? Do you push or dig? Are you ready to jump the thing and get out of harness every time you are hitched.

The respect a man or firm hold in the business world depends on the honesty and business dispatch of the individual or firm. The Union is measured the same way.

It seems, now that the banking question will be the question most agitated at our picnics, so we should all go and hear what those who have experience along that line, and see if we can't get right on that one question. If this series of picnics would only bring a Farmers' Union Bank into operation in Crittenden county, it will have accomplished something for the farmers.

Every one should read the RECORD-PRESS as it is the intention of its many writers to give you something that will be good food for the brain. Just at this time there are many things of interest that should occupy the minds of all. The extremely low rate of 30 cents for the balance of the year, should put the RECORD-PRESS in the hands of all Union people as well as those out side.

Let every Union man appoint himself a committee, to see that all parties who attempt to "boot-leg" whiskey at our Union picnics, are delivered up to the proper authority.

Such shameful and unlawful acts do not only bring disgrace and shame upon a gathering, but it is an open violation to the laws of the land, and the laws of God.

So let the committee on good order look out for those who would desecrate our gatherings, by furnishing "wild cat" whiskey with wiggle-tails in it. Such stuff is calculated to make a rabbit spit in a bulldogs face.

We would like for every business man in Crittenden and adjoining counties to be present at our Union picnics, and if there is any hostile feeling existing between the farmers and business men, (and it should not exist,) we hope it will all be settled by a good dinner and an enjoyable time. Beginning with this weeks issue of the RECORD-PRESS, will be found the first of a series of articles. "The Disease and the Remedy" written by Uncle Sam Hampton of Texas, for the National Cooperator. Every Union man should read these articles clip them and save them for references.

Tom Lawson.—Did you ever hear of Tom Lawson, of Boston, the millionaire author of Frenzied Finance? Did you that he did a great service for the Farmers Union of Kentucky without knowing it?

Yes fifteen years ago Tom Lawson headed a great mining venture at Grand River Kentucky and built a great warehouse that cost twenty thousand dollars. It could not be duplicated today for less than thirty thousand. Well, the Farmers' Union has bought this property for four thousand dollars to be used as a tobacco warehouse. Is that doing any thing?

Did you know that the power growers of Tennessee are to meet the 15th and perfect plans for establishing a reclamation on the Tennessee River and centering all their sales through one source.

Did you know that they contemplate placing a boat on the Tennessee to ply from Paducah to points South for the Union?

Flashlight from the Union ship as she sails thru the wreck and ruin of pirate crafts strewn after the whirlwind of panic, reveals many black flags and broken spars and hulls of greed estwhile sailed the sea of commerce. Look at one exposure of graft in Memphis this week.

Look at the news-items in this issue of the bankruptcy of a great bucket shop concern involving millions and members of the robbers conclave gone to skinning each other and one on the way to Vancouver to escape the law.

Look at the failure of the great cotton handling future gamblers, the Indian Company.

Keep your eye on the road of the age and see if you see any indication of a change.

Phaw! We aint hardly started hardly yet. Been going to school and just beginning to catch on. It wont be so tarnation hard on the loyal members always as it has been in the past.

UNION BANKS ARE ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESSFUL POOLING.

Brethren!—I propounded a few questions in a few issues ago, that I thought would bring, out, plainly and clearly, the above topic. But as yet, I have not heard a note from any ones horn. Of course it has been said, that silence gives consent, but I can't tell by your silence which way you think, but I hope you are thoroughly considering those questions.

Now, if we would get the best of these columns, we must agitate such questions as in which we are concerned, keeping straight down the line, and taking good care not to fool with any little side show that may be stuck up at us.

Back to the subject. Well, I have quite a little opposition to the Farmers' Union Banks, which I trust is the honest and sincere opinion of those who are opposing, but it seems to me that if we would look at it, hat it is not merely a scheme to benefit those who have the money to put in bank stock, but it is more to help the poor, so that by tiding them over panics that we may accomplish what have started in to accomplish.

Take for instance, the view, that there are three-fifths of the farmers that have pooled their tobacco this year, that have to have, or actually need, an advance on their tobacco, of say, 50 or 100 per cent. Could we of any certainty, provide them any such? That question was answered last fall by the banks of, not only Crittenden county, but of all this nation.

Now, Farmers, take warning by what has already transpired. I want it understood strictly, that I am not censuring any banker in the State of Kentucky, for what happened in the banking business. Let the blame be placed where it belongs, upon the shoulder of the farmer. Upon the men who are the very foundation of the banking business, as well as all other enterprises. Pretty broad as section isn't it? But it takes no proof to verify that assertion just lay down that little self interest and think for one moment, and you are convinced of the facts, that if the farmer didn't trade with the business man, that the business man could not do a banking business, further if the farmers did not borrow and deposit, the bank's wouldn't pay clerks and high taxes to do business. So down goes the bank as well as every other institution, without the hand of honest toil and production.

Now, brethren, that we are emerging upon the pooling business, lets not be so silly as to make one promise that we cannot fulfill. It is a fact—undeniable, that all the tobacco in our Union cannot be thrown upon the market at stripping time, and I the "Honest Foller" realize a just and equitable price for it. So, we must pool, and if we must pool lets use every incentive possible to aid our weak and distressed brothers.

Can we do our very best while we let those gamblers and thieves of farm products hoard our money and hold it away from us at the very time we should have it?

Now, do you say I am guessing as to this matter? Then suppose we wait and undergo another experience or two as we did last fall and we will not only be wrecked ourselves but some of our best friends will have to quit the mercantile business.

It is truly the opinion of some, that the farmers of Crittenden county, —the men who have built the towns, high roads, public buildings and have in some parts of the county contributed extensively to the building of a railroad that would deny them the privilege of a free ride, I say it is the feeble opinion of some of our most interjected farmers that we can't own and operate bank. Puny argument, indeed when there are already three banks in the county that are doing good business.

I say, that if the F. E. and C. U. of A. holds out a pooling proposition to one of its members, or any other individual, it will be doing a half-way business if it can't say in conjunction, that we will actually advance you at least 50 or 60 per cent. on your weed when it is pooled, delivered and insured.

It is my opinion, that old pooling associations and unions that fall short of the above, will be a failure as long as the national banks hold the grip they have upon the throat of our commerce. And you may rest assured, that as long as the constitution of the U. S., reach as it does and that, U. S. Senators are elected as they are, that long they will hold their death grip upon the American people.

As I have said before, the only salvation for the working class is to organize and systemize our own business.

LISTEN!—Our Own Business! We have left it to Applehead law makers and bosses of finance. Till I believe it is going to take the "Deserving with the help of God to redeem this nation of its present condition. Let every man who toils ask himself "Can I do anything to help a weak and helpless brother? No Man Liveth to Himself."

Now, in conclusion, let me say, as on that is interested for the welfare and hereafter of all mankind that we have no time to waste, next year we should be in shape to handle every pound of tobacco grown by the F. E. and C. U. of A. membership, as well as who are out and not eligible to membership. Now if we are to pool the tobacco of the farmers, why not hold out a safe and sane system by which the farmers may pool their money, also.

Banking is merely a pooling system, or "Trust" and I don't see why the farmers can't indulge in it.

So, lets make arrangements to pool our money first, regardless of what our kindfolks and neighbors say, who own a little bank stock. Lets look after the poor as well as the rich.

We have got scarcely time now to get a bank into operation by next pooling time, so lets get busy. Don't try to comfort yourself with the idea that we will not have any opposition in this matter, for, "There is no excellence without great labor," and if thou will be faithful in a few things, I will make you ruler over many.

A universal system of Farmers' Union Banks is the only thing that will make the "Money Kings" lay down their arms and beg for mercy at the feet of their Master—the producer of wealth.

Who next? C. O. P.

CIGARETTES.

"You smoke thirty cigarettes a day?"

"Yes, on the average."

"You don't blame them for your rundown condition?"

"Not in the least. I blame my hard work."

The physician shook his head. He smiled in a vexed way. Then he took a leech out of a glass jar.

"Let me show you something, he said. "Bare your arm."

The cigarette fiend bared his pale arm, and the other laid the leech. Black leech upon it. The leech fell to work busily. Its body began to swell. Then all of a sudden, a kind of a shudder convulsed it, and it fell to the floor, dead.

"That is what your blood did to me," said the cigarette fiend. He took up the little corpse and put it finger and thumb. "Look at it," he said. Quite dead, you see. You poisoned it."

"I guess it wasn't a healthy leech, in the first place," said the cigarette smoker, sullenly.

"Wasn't healthy eh? Well, we'll try again."

And the physician clapped two leeches on the young man's thin arm.

"If they both die," said the patient "I'll swear off—or at least I'll cut down my daily allowance from thirty to ten."

Even as he spoke the smaller one shivered and dropped on his knee dead and anon later the larger one fell beside it.

"This is ghastly," said the young man, "I am worse than the pestilence to these leeches."

"It is the empyreumatic oil in your blood," said the medical man. "All cigarette fiends have it."

"Doe," said the young man, regarding the three dead leeches, thoughtfully. "I half believe you're right. West Virginia School Journal

There was a time when people cultivated corn with a garden hoe and made the work profitable. Today you couldn't hire enough corn to pay the taxes on the land. Then came the single shovel plow, and after that the double shovel. As the years went by the expense of growing corn increased and the double shovel plow was too slow, so the walking cultivator was brought out.—Frank D. Hake.

The men who have achieved success are the men who have worked, read, thought more than was absolutely necessary, who have not been content with knowledge sufficient for the present need, but who have sought additional knowledge and stored it away for the emergency reserve. It is the superfluous labor that equips a man for everything that counts most in life.—Cushman K. Davis.

"Giving The Soil A Square Deal." That is a catchy expression about "giving the soil a square deal" which Samuel W. Allen, of Chicago, has applied to his farm experiments made with a view to conserving soil fertility.

"That reckless and wholesale destruction of the fertility of the soil in this good land of ours," says Mr. Apperton, "is beyond all question the greatest and most serious danger to the future of the American people. It is found to be the biggest problem of the present generation."

How I Saved My Boys.

Mrs. Ma R. Godsey, in Southern Ruralist says:

I want to tell you of my home and why I moved from town to the country. Some years ago my husband, a railroad man, died in a neighboring State. I was left a widow with eight little ones, six boys and two girls.

Being far from the land of my birth and what kindred I had, I decided to return to my old home, a thriving city of South Carolina. My husband owned some town property at this place, and fortunately had a house untenanted at the time. So, after settling my affairs, I moved my family there.

Only those who have experienced it know what a sad thing it is for the widowed mother and grieving wife, who has to gather her little brood around her and make a new nest. A new nest, a new home, where there is no father to love, guide, protect and protect from all harm. I resolved with God's help to raise my little ones to be a credit to that dear father who had gone on before.

With a heavy heart I tried to be cheerful and make home pleasant for my children. My eldest son went to work in an office and the others, with the exception of my two youngest, were sent to a good school. A year or two passed and my second son decided that too, too, would go to work. Of all things he wanted to farm. Just think of it, a seventeen-year-old boy, reared in town, where we could not have a garden. "How can you farm, son?" I asked. "With no experience and no one to teach you." To please him I rented a few acres near town, which he planted in corn and peas. Our home plot he put in cotton, potatoes and vegetables. I will not go into details but with the aid of a good farm journal he made his first crop—a fair crop of corn, fine peas, a bale of cotton, fifty bushels of potatoes and plenty of vegetables. This success in a small way fired his ambition, so I bought a small farm seven miles from town.

That year proved a bad crop year, still he made expenses and cleared a little money. In the meantime I found that my little boys at home were growing away from me. In spite of my efforts to prevent, they were getting in bad company and would go out on the streets. When I could induce my boys to stay home the neighbor boys, good and bad, dropped in. I soon realized that unless some decisive step was taken my boys were in fair way to be ruined. What to do I could not decide. One day while at the farm, I kept thinking, "What can I do to save my boys?"

As I sat there my idle gaze wandered over the quiet fields and green woods. All at once it flashed into my mind that here was the solution to my problem. Then and there I decided to sell my home in town and build me a nice home on the farm. My friends protested, "You will be ruined," "You can't farm," "You won't like the country." Every one tried to discourage me but I kept to my determination.

Today I have a nice home of nine rooms, ten foot verandas with colonial columns. It is tasteful and as comfortable as any city home. My children have a new piano, graphophone etc. I am not making barrels of money, but am doing fairly well with the farm. I am running a thrashers farm this year and am independent of labor as I have four boys large enough to work.

I have a fine vegetable garden and an acre in sweet potatoes. I have seven fine hogs and a pair of registered Berkshire to raise from, and as there is a noble colt as there is in the country. I make plenty of milk and butter and have an occasional beef to sell. I have lots of fine chickens, flocks of geese and ducks, turkeys, etc. I like the country. Country life I think the finest in the world. But better than all, I find that my little boys are mine again. There is no mischief for them to get into. When there is no farm work to do they go fishing or to that "house of light for small boys," or "house of light." Some days the boys carry and plums. I am never worried about them, nor wonder what they are doing. When night comes every little sleepy head is ready for bed. It is such a comfort to have them all to myself, as it were. We have a fine school near us and this fall I want to send my eldest daughter to college. The little boys have their friends from town occasionally. They enjoy this.

They work cheerfully and seem to take as much interest in every thing as I do myself.

So I may say that home in the country has proved a success in every sense of the word. I am thankful for the sweet privilege of making a country home.

The United States has 15,000 "new farmers" who have graduated from agricultural colleges. The first American experiment station was opened in 1875 by Prof. W. O. Atwater. Since then fifty other stations have been established and the United States government spends $11,000,000 annually on its agricultural department.

Why wouldn't a movement to utilize some of the many acres of corn stalks that go to waste every year for paper pulp, instead of devastating the forests, be in line with the movement for the conservation of our natural resources? Without a doubt, in years to come we will see every pound of plant tissue not made use of for fuel on the farm go to a paper mill.

We do not sympathize with those who sell their choice of chickens to the butcher and eat fat pork and oil. Instead of the year round

Let every man who toils ask himself "Can I do anything to help a weak and helpless brother?" "No Man Liveth to Himself."

Now, in conclusion, let me say, as on that is interested for the welfare and hereafter of all mankind that we have no time to waste, next year we should be in shape to handle every pound of tobacco grown by the F. E. and C. U. of A. membership, as well as who are out and not eligible to membership. Now if we are to pool the tobacco of the farmers, why not hold out a safe and sane system by which the farmers may pool their money, also.

Banking is merely a pooling system, or "Trust" and I don't see why the farmers can't indulge in it.

So, let's make arrangements to pool our money first, regardless of what our kinsfolks and neighbors say, who own a little bank stock. Let's look after the poor as well as the rich.

We have got scarcely time now to get a bank into operation by next pooling time, so let's get busy. Don't try to comfort yourself with the idea that we will not have any opposition in this matter, for "There is no excellence without great labor," and if thou wilt be faithful in a few things, I will make you ruler over many.

A universal system of Farmers' Union Banks is the only thing that will make the "Money Kings" lay down their arms and beg for mercy at the feet of their Master—the producer of wealth.

CIGARETTES.

"You smoke thirty cigarettes a day?"

"Yes, on the average."

"You don't blame them for your rundown condition?"

"Not in the least. I blame my hard work."

The physician shook his head. He smiled in a vexed way. Then he took a leech out of a glass jar.

"Let me show you something, he said. "Behave your arm."

The cigarette fiend bared his pale arm, and the other laid the lean, black leech upon it. The leech fell to work busily. Its body began to swell. Then all of a sudden, a kind of a shudder convulsed it, and it fell so the floor, dead.

"That is what your blood did to the leech," said the physician. He took up the little corpse and put it in a box.

finger and thumb. "Look at it," he said. Quite dead, you see. You poisoned it."

"I guess it wasn't a healthy leech, in the first place," said the cigarette smoker, sullenly.

"Wasn't healthy eh? Well, we'll try again."

And the physician clapped two leeches on the young man's thin arm.

"If they both die," said the patient "I'll swear off—or at least I'll cut down my daily allowance from thirty to ten."

Even as he spoke the smaller one shivered and dropped on his knee dead and anon later the larger one fell beside it.

"This is ghastly," said the young man. "I am worse than the pestilence to these leeches."

"It is the empyreumatic oil in your blood," said the medical man. "All cigarette fiends have it."

"Doe," said the young man, regarding the three dead leeches, thoughtfully. "I half believe you're right." West Virginia School Journal

There was a time when people cultivated corn with a garden hoe and made the work profitable. Today you couldn't hoe enough corn to pay the taxes on the land taxed. Then came the single shovel plow, and after that the double shovel. As the years went by the expense of growing corn increased and the double shovel plow was too slow, so the walking cultivator was brought out.—Frank D. Hake

The men who have achieved success are the men who have worked, read, thought more than was absolutely necessary, who have not been content with knowledge sufficient for the present need, but who have sought additional knowledge and stored it away for the emergency reserve. It is the superfluous labor that equips a man for everything that counts most in life.—Cushman K. Davis.

"Giving The Soil A Square Deal."

That is a catchy expression about "giving the soil a square deal" which Samuel W. Allen, of Chicago, has applied to his farm experiments made with a view to conserving soil fertility.

"That reckless and wholesale depletion of the fertility of the soil in this good land of ours," says Mr. Allen, "is beyond all question the greatest and most serious danger threatening the American people. It is bound to come to the farmer's problem—'How can I conserve my soil?'"

How I Saved My Boys.

Mrs. Ida R. Goadney, in Southern Ruralist says:

I want to tell you of my home and why I moved from town to the country. Some years ago my husband, a railroad man, died in a neighboring State. I was left a widow with eight little ones, six boys and two girls.

Being far from the land of my birth and what kindred I had, I decided to return to my old home, a thriving city of South Carolina. My husband owned some town property at this place, and fortunately had a house untenanted at the time. So, after settling my affairs, I moved my family there.

Only those who have experienced it know what a sad thing it is for the widowed mother and grieving wife, who has to gather her little brood around her and make a new nest. A new nest, a new home, where there is no father to love, guide and protect from all harm. I resolved with God's help to raise my little ones to a credit to that dear father who had gone on before.

With a heavy heart I tried to be cheerful and make home pleasant for my children. My eldest son went to work in an office and the others, with the exception of my two youngest, were sent to a good school. A year or two passed and my second son decided that he, too, would go to work. Of all things he wanted to farm. Just think of it, a seventeen-year-old boy, reared in town, where we could not have a garden. "How can you farm, son?" I asked. "With no experience and no one to teach you?" To please him I rented a few acres near town, which he planted in corn and peas. Our home plot he put in cotton, potatoes and vegetables. I will not go into details, but with the aid of a good farm journal he made his first crop—a fair crop of corn, time peas hay, a bale of cotton, fifty bushels of potatoes and plenty of vegetables. This success in a small way fired his ambition so I bought a small farm seven miles from town.

That year proved a bad crop year, still he made expenses and cleared a little money. In the meantime I found that my little boys at home were growing away from me. In spite of my efforts to prevent they were getting to be bad company and would go on the streets. When I could induce my boys to stay home the neighbor boys, good and bad, dropped in. I soon realized that unless some decisive step was taken my boys were in the way to be ruined. But what to do I could not decide. One day, while at the farm, I kept thinking, "What can I do to save my boys?"

As I sat there my idle gaze wandered over the quiet fields and green woods. All at once it flashed into my mind that here was the solution to my problem. Then and there I decided to sell my home in town and build me a nice home on the farm. My friends protested, "You will be ruined," "You can't farm," "You won't like the country." Every one tried to dissuade me but I kept to my determination.

Today I have a nice home of nine rooms, ten foot verandas with colonial columns. It is furnished and as comfortable as any city home. My children have a new piano, graphophone etc. I am not making barrels of money, but am doing fairly well with the farm. I am running a thrush-horse farm this year and am independent of labor as I have four boys large enough to work.

I have a fine vegetable garden and an acre in sweet potatoes. I have seven fine hogs and a pair of registered Berkshire pigs to raise from, and as fine a milk cow as there is in the country. I make plenty of milk and butter and have an occasional beef to sell. Have lots of blue chickens, flocks of geese and ducks, turkeys, etc. I like the country. Country life I think the finest in the world. But better than all I find that my little boys are home again. There is no mischief for them to get into. When there is no farm work to do, they go fishing or to that haven of delight for small boys, "Tomah huts." Some have the best berries and plums. I am never worried about them, nor wonder what they are doing. When night comes every little sleepy head is ready for bed. It is such a comfort to have them all to myself, as it were. We have a fine school near us and this fall I want to send my eldest daughter to college. The little boys have their friends from town occasionally. They enjoy this.

"They work cheerfully and seem to take as much interest in every thing as I do myself."

So I may say that home in the country has proved a success in every sense of the word. I am thankful for the sweet privilege of making a country home.

The United States has 15,000 "new farmers," who have graduated from agricultural colleges. The first American experiment station was opened in 1875 by Prof. W. O. Atwater. Since then fifty other stations have been established and the United States government spends $11,000,000 annually on its agricultural department.

Why wouldn't a movement to utilize some of the many acres of corn stalks that go to waste every year for paper pulp, instead of devastating the forests, be in line with the movement for the conservation of our natural resources? Without a doubt, in years to come we will see every pound of plant tissue not made use of for food on the farm go to a paper mill.

We do not sympathize with those who sell their choice fat chickens to the butcher and eat fat pork and "streak the year round."

THE EDITOR.

The tobacco situation in the Stemming District certainly looks good, and every Equity man should feel proud of the Association. This will be a banner year for the growers of Crittenden county, with a No. 1 crop of nearly 5000 acres in the pool and a prospect of a ready sale and a good price it certainly "looks good to us." But a good growing crop is not all of it, remember a great deal depends upon the firing and handling of the crop. Many a good crop of tobacco has been ruined in the barn, by curing it up green or allowing it to house burn, either of which takes at least one third off the price. For in the Stemming Association your crop must sell on its merits, and if you want it to grade up you must do your part well. We would appreciate articles on curing and handling of tobacco for the Stemming trade and hope that we shall find volunteers among our veteran growers who will give us the benefit of their experience in the next week's PRESS.

Owing to lack of time last week we inserted the Associated Press dispatch relative to the Bowling Green tobacco meeting, which organized the Great Tobacco Union, without comment.

The Stemming District delegates did not sign the articles of incorporation, but the whole proceedings will be laid before the members of the association for ratification. So it is up to us as to what we will do about it therefore I insert the objects of the proposed new Society so that you may be thinking about it. They are as follows:

The nature of the business proposed to be transacted and promoted and carried on shall be: To foster and promote the interests of all the growers of tobacco in the United States by disseminating information relating to the planting, growing, housing, handling and selling of tobacco and to thus, and by other means, improve the quality of tobacco; to assist in the sales of tobacco and to act as agents to that end; to assist in securing fair and remunerative prices for tobacco and to these ends, and for the promoting of these objects to co-operate with other tobacco societies, corporations and organizations having the same general objects in view.

And it is the purpose and object of this organization to become the central head and general association, in which all the present tobacco growers' societies, associations, corporations and organizations of the United States may unite, and through which the same may act and transact business as a unit and as one body, and to decide all controversies between the different organizations, members of this society; and to thus simplify and reduce to uniformity the various methods and means of producing, handling, storing and selling tobacco so far as practicable, and to do all such other things as may be necessary to secure the active co-operation of all tobacco growers' organizations; and to this end all purpose this organization may have and receive as active members of its corporate organization societies, associations, corporations and organizations of every description engaged in the furtherance of the same objects and purposes herein set out, and it shall have all the rights and powers, privileges and authority of a body corporate necessary and proper to enable it to do and perform all the objects and purposes herein contemplated.

The affairs of the company shall be conducted by a board of at least nine directors, which shall consist of individual members from each society, association, corporation or organization, a member thereof, who shall be elected annually on or before Tuesday after the first Saturday in October of each year, by such society, association, corporation or other organization. The basis of representation of each society, association, corporation or other organization, a member hereof, in such board shall be one member of each subordinate organization and an additional member for each 50,000,000 pounds of tobacco controlled by such organization during the year next before the election may be held, provided that no organization shall have more than three representatives on the Board of Directors. But no society, association, corporation or organization shall have any representation on such board whose contracts under which it controls its tobacco do not conform to the by-laws of this corporation and a vote of two-thirds of the total board shall determine any question arising under this clause.

CARDINAL POINTS.

MR. EDITOR

Our order has three cardinal points—organization, education and setting prices upon the farm product. We cannot set prices and maintain them without education. We cannot get education without organization any more than boys and girls can get education without schools. Organizing only affords the opportunity for us to educate. When members meet and spend their time in talking nonsense, rising no higher than neighborhood gossip or smutty stores, they are losing opportunity and wasting time, then they complain because "it doesn't amount to anything." Every local is, and of necessity must be, just what its members make it—just as high or just as low, just as important or just as worthless as the ability or mental status of its members. I have often said, and still maintain, that every local should have, besides its present officers, a lecturer, a statistician, and a business agent, and where there is enough business to justify it, change the business agent to a board of directors. The duty of the lecturer is either to arrange a short, spirited literary program to be rendered by the young people of the neighborhood, or he should lead in the discussion on some one of the great and important questions that are up before the American people settlement. While none of us understand the great and ever growing question of production and distribution too well, it is not enough to study that, to the neglect of the economic questions, for we may be legislated out of all our surplus product. We must learn the importance of another cardinal principle of our order, that of nonpartisanship. Had we been observant, we would have known years ago that partisanship means prejudice and that we were being used by the shrewd politician and business man. Nonpartisanship means for us to make politics a matter of business. It means for us, as members of the order, to study such questions as the postal savings bank, federal inspection of farm products, the gambling in farm products by the board of trade, and the initiative and referendum. We should study these questions and settle in our own minds as to which is to the interest of the farmer, and vote our intelligence rather than our prejudices, to feel that we were casting a ballot as an independent American citizen rather than being a tool of some politician who looks upon us as his property to use as he directs, as he yokes his horse. Do we not need education along these lines? Do we not say to our hired hand, whom we pay twenty or twenty-five dollars a month, that he must do his work thus and so? But how many of us told our hand in congress, whom we pay seven thousand five hundred dollars per year, how we want the work done? How many? Don't all speak at once. Ah! we easy "Rubes" have been played for suckers. We turned that all over to some one else. What we must do is to get busy, use our organization as an educator. We must study the various questions. We must differentiate between the present money system and the postal savings bank. When we do we will find that the present system furnishes the money to the bankers without interest, and that the postal savings bank system will furnish it to all without interest upon good and sufficient security. Every one who has studied the money question knows that it is the function of government to furnish the money of the country. He also knows that it should furnish it without partiality. If furnished without interest to one, it should be furnished without interest to all. See? Let us get wise by dropping our partisan prejudice, and, instead of voting for a party, let us vote for Betty and the babies.

J. WELLER LONG,
Chippewa Falls, Wis.

The above letter from one of the old Equity wheel-horses, about expresses the trend of things in the entire west, and we need not be surprised any time should we hear "something drop."

We hope that every tobacco grower in the county begin now to make his arrangements to be in Louisville on Sept. 18th, "Equity day." This day is set apart for us and we should avail ourselves of the opportunity to meet with the largest crowd ever assembled in the Falls City, to mingle with the greatest army of tobacco growers ever assembled on the globe. It is hoped that the growers of every Association will go, but especially should every member of the Society of Equity be there to meet our brethren of the Green River, Onesucker and Burley districts. You should hear their stories of their fight against the Great Trust from their own lips. Our troubles have been but trifles compared with theirs. So let us go. The railroad will have low rates. The State fair will be better than ever this year. We shall be in our new quarters which now belongs to us, in new buildings and a permanent home for the farmers to exhibit the products of our great state. You are paying the bill and you should endeavor to get the most out of it. Go and see the fine stock, poultry and farm products, so that you may arrange to better the breeds and varieties at home.

Let us have contributions from the brethren on any farm topic that appeals to you. Don't depend upon me entirely, as I have to work some as you do. You can give us a short article. Send in to me or to the PRESS, and make it for me.

Join Together.

Bowling Green, Ky., Aug. 20.

The Union Tobacco Society was formed here to-day, being a union of all the tobacco growers' associations of Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio. There were 300 delegates representing the various associations, although by the call only two representatives were permitted to enter into the deliberations.

During the day, while the committee was at work, speeches were made by C. M. Hanna and M. C. Rankin. There were ten societies represented, the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association, the Old Green River Association, New Green River Association, Stemmers' Association, Onesucker Association, Burley Tobacco Society, Indiana Tobacco Growers' Association, Ohio Tobacco Society and the Wisconsin Tobacco Association. F. G. Ewing was made chairman, and Clarence Lebus secretary.

The committee deliberated all the afternoon, and to-night reported in favor of the union under the name of the Union Tobacco Society. A corporation without capital stock will be formed under the laws of Kentucky. Each of the associations in the union is entitled to one director and one additional director for each twenty-five million pounds raised last year up to and not to exceed three. These directors will select an executive board of five. The first board of directors will be announced to-morrow, who will serve until the associations meet and select another.

The organization embraces a hundred thousand tobacco growers. Among the prominent people in attendance were F. G. Ewing, Joel B. Fort, W. C. McCord, Clarence Lebus, M. C. Hanna, M. C. Rankin, A. L. Davenport, and William Elliott. The organizers are enthusiastic over the prospects and say they can now control the tobacco markets of the country.

The draft of the articles of incorporation provides that the principal place of business shall be in Louisville. No capital stock is mentioned; but the limit of indebtedness is $1,000,000. The nature of the business is to foster and promote the interests of tobacco growers and to handle, sell, pool tobacco of members of the society. The further purpose is to become the Central head and general association in which all the tobacco growers' societies, corporations and organizations in the United States may unite and through which the same may act and transact business as a unit and decide all controversies between the different organizations member of this society. There shall be at least nine directors who shall be elected, one from each of the organizations comprising the union, and an additional member for each fifty million pounds pooled by such association the year before. Other officers are a president and secretary and such other officers as may be prescribed by the by-laws. These are to be selected by the directors. The president has the power to appoint an executive committee of five members of the board of directors to have active charge during the absence of the entire board.

The articles provide that any other tobacco association may become a member of the Union Tobacco Society by subscribing to its rules. The articles before becoming final shall be submitted back to the different organizations for ratification and they to report back to another meeting to be held in Louisville October 6.

There was much enthusiasm during the meeting. Messrs. McCord and Lebus made rousing speeches to a large audience to-night.

PRESTIGE MAY

New Policy of American Means Much
For Local Warehouses—May Stop Night Riding.

Local tobacco circles are considerably agitated over the news that the American Tobacco Company is to cease all its bacco in the Louisville and Cincinnati markets, and as a step in this direction twenty-two country buyers have been dispensed with, as was stated exclusively in The Times Saturday. Officers of the American Tobacco Company are reticent about the matter. Speaking of the matter to-day a leading independent buyer said that he had heard the rumor and believed it was true. Further he said: "If it is true, it means the restoration of the local market to its old time-glory. The American Tobacco Company has been buying something like 90,000,000 pounds in the country, and an equal amount in the local breaks. Lots of the tobacco troubles have been contributed to the policy of buying in the country. It is believed the withdrawal of these buyers will allay much of the hostility on the part of the growers toward the American Tobacco Company, as well as it can fix the price by buying in the country, and altogether it looks like the best thing to do is do all the buying on the breaks. During the past ten days quite a strong demand has sprung up for the stock of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company, the common stock advancing from $43 to $51, this gives color to the rumor, as the buying through the local market by the American would mean handsome earnings for the warehouses."—Louisville Times.

A Paying Investment.

Mr. John White, of 38 Highland Ave., Houlton, Maine, says: "Have been troubled with a cough every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50 cent bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, before that was half gone, the cough was all gone. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses once more banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." How to Get Strong.

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. And it is the purpose and object of this organization to become the central head and general association, in which all the present tobacco growers' societies, associations, corporations and organizations of the United States may unite, and through which the same may act and transact business as a unit and as one body, and to decide all controversies between the different organizations, members of this society; and to thus simplify and reduce to uniformity the various methods and means of producing, handling, storing and selling tobacco so far as practicable, and to do all such other things as may be necessary to secure the active co-operation of all tobacco growers' organizations; and to this end all purpose this organization may have and receive as active members of its corporate organization societies, associations, corporations and organizations of every description engaged in the furtherance of the same objects and purposes herein set out, and it shall have all the rights and powers, privileges and authority of a body corporate necessary and proper to enable it to do and perform all the objects and purposes herein contemplated.

The affairs of the company shall be conducted by a board of at least nine directors, which shall consist of individual members from each society, association, corporation or organization, a member hereof, who shall be elected annually on or before Tuesday after the first Saturday in October of each year, by such society, association, corporation or other organization. The basis of representation of each society, association, corporation or other organization, a member hereof, in such board shall be one member of each subordinate organization and an additional member for each 50,000,000 pounds of tobacco controlled by such organization during the year next before the election may be held, provided that no organization shall have more than three representatives on the Board of Directors. But no society, association, corporation or organization shall have any representation on such board whose contracts under which it controls its tobacco do not conform to the by-laws of this corporation and a vote of two-thirds of the total board shall determine any question arising under this clause.

CARDINAL POINTS.

MR. EDITOR

Our order has three cardinal points—organization, education and setting prices upon the farm product. We cannot set prices and maintain them without education. We cannot get education without organization any more than boys and girls can get education without schools. Organizing only affords the opportunity for us to educate. When members meet and spend their time in talking nonsense, rising no higher than neighborhood gossip or smutty stories, they are losing opportunity and wasting time; then they complain because "it doesn't amount to anything." Every local is, and of necessity must be, just what its members make it—just as high or just as low, just as important or just as worthless as the ability or mental status of its members. I have often said, and still maintain, that every local should have, besides its present officers, a lecturer, a statistician, and a business agent, and, where there is enough business to justify it, change the business agent to a board of directors. The duty of the lecturer is either to arrange a short, spirited literary program to be rendered by the young people of the neighborhood, or he should lead in the discussion on some one of the great and important questions that are up before the American people settlement. While none of us understand the great and ever growing question of production and distribution too well, it is not enough to study that, to the neglect of the economic questions, for we may be legislated out of all our surplus product. We must learn the importance of another cardinal principle of our order, that of nonpartisanism. Had we been observant, we would have known years ago that partisanship means prejudice and that we were being used by the shrewd politician and business man. Nonpartisanism means for us to make politics a matter of business. It means for us, as members of the order, to study such questions as the postal savings bank, federal inspection of farm products, the gambling in farm products by the board of trade, and the initiative and referendum. We should study these questions and settle in our own minds as to which is to the interest of the farmer, and vote our intelligence rather than our prejudices, to feel that we were casting a ballot as an independent American citizen rather than being a tool of some politician who looks upon us as his property to use as he directs, as he yokes his horse. Do we not need education along these lines? Do we not say to our hired hand, whom we pay twenty or twenty-five dollars a month, that he must do his work thus and so? But how many of us told our hand in congress, whom we pay seven thousand five hundred dollars per year, how we want the work done? How many? Don't all speak at once. Ah! we easy "Rubes" have been played for suckers. We turned that all over to some one else. What we must do is to get busy, use our organization as an educator. We must study the various questions. We must differentiate between the present money system and the postal savings bank. When we do we will find that the present system furnishes the money to the bankers without interest, and that the postal savings bank system will furnish it to all without interest upon good and sufficient security. Every one who has studied the money question knows that it is the function of government to furnish the money of the country. He also knows that it should furnish it without partiality. If furnished without interest to one, it should be furnished without interest to all. See? Let us get wise by dropping our partisan prejudice, and, instead of voting for a party, let us vote for Betty and the babies.

J. WELLER LONG,

Chippewa Falls, Wis.

The above letter from one of the old Equity wheel-horses, about expresses the trend of things in the entire west, and we need not be surprised any time should we hear "something drop."

We hope that every tobacco grower in the county begin now to make his arrangements to be in Louisville on Sept. 15th, "Equity day." This day is set apart for us and we should avail ourselves of the opportunity to meet with the largest crowd ever assembled in the Falls City, to mingle with the greatest army of tobacco growers ever assembled on the globe. It is hoped that the growers of every Association will go, but especially should every member of the Society of Equity be there to meet our brethren of the Green River, Onesucker and Burley districts. You should hear their stories of their fight against the Great Trust from their own lips. Our troubles have been but trifles compared with theirs. So let us go. The railroad will have low rates. The State fair will be better than ever this year. We shall be in our new quarters which now belongs to us, in new buildings and a permanent home for the farmers to exhibit the products of our great state. You are paying the bill and you should endeavor to get the most out of it. Go and see the fine stock, poultry and farm products, so that you may arrange to better the breeds and varieties at home.

Let us have contributions from the brethren on any farm topic that appeals to you. Don't depend upon me entirely, as I have to work some as you do. You can give us a short article. Send it to me or direct to the PRESS, and make it for all.

Join Together.

Bowling Green, Ky., Aug. 20.

The Union Tobacco Society was formed here to-day, being a union of all the tobacco growers' associations of Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio. There were 300 delegates representing the various associations, although by the call only two representatives were permitted to enter into the deliberations.

During the day, while the committee was at work, speeches were made by C. M. Hanna and M. C. Rankin. There were ten societies represented, the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association, the Old Green River Association, New Green River Association, Stemmers' Association, Onesucker Association, Burley Tobacco Society, Indiana Tobacco Growers' Association, Ohio Tobacco Society and the Wisconsin Tobacco Association. F. G. Ewing was made chairman, and Clarence Lebus secretary.

The committee deliberated all the afternoon, and to-night reported in favor of the union under the name of the Union Tobacco Society. A corporation without capital stock will be formed under the laws of Kentucky. Each of the associations in the union is entitled to one director and one additional director for each twenty-five million pounds raised last year up to and not to exceed three. These directors will select an executive board of five. The first board of directors will be announced to-morrow, who will serve until the associations meet and select another.

The organization embraces a hundred thousand tobacco growers. Among the prominent people in attendance were F. G. Ewing, Joel B. Fort, W. C. McCord, Clarence Lebus, M. C. Hanna, M. C. Rankin, A. L. Daveport, and William Elliott. The organizers are enthusiastic over the prospects and say they can now control the tobacco markets of the country.

The draft of the articles of incorporation provides that the principal place of business shall be in Louisville. No capital stock is mentioned; but the limit of indebtedness is $1,000,000. The nature of the business is to foster and promote the interests of tobacco growers and to handle, sell, pool tobacco of members of the society. The further purpose is to become the Central head and general association in which all the tobacco growers' societies, corporations and organizations in the United States may unite and through which the same may act and transact business as a unit and decide all controversies between the different organizations member of this society. There shall be at least nine directors who shall be elected, one from each of the organizations comprising the union, and an additional member for each fifty million pounds pooled by such association the year before. Other officers are a president and secretary and such other officers as may be prescribed by the by-laws. These are to be selected by the directors. The president has the power to appoint an executive committee of five members of the board of directors to have active charge during the absence of the entire board.

The articles provide that any other tobacco association may become a member of the Union Tobacco Society by subscribing to its rules. The articles before becoming final shall be submitted back to the different organizations for ratification and they to report back to another meeting to be held in Louisville October 6.

There was much enthusiasm during the meeting. Messrs. McCord and Lebus made rousing speeches to a large audience to-night.

New Policy of American Means Much For Local Warehouses—May Stop Night Riding.

Local tobacco circles are considerably agitated over the news that the American Tobacco Company is to cease its night riding.

bacco in the Louisville and Cincinnati markets, and as a step in this direction twenty-two country buyers have been dispensed with, as was stated exclusively in The Times Saturday. Officers of the American Tobacco Company are reticent about the matter. Speaking of the matter to-day a leading independent buyer said that he had heard the rumor and believed it was true. Further he said: "If it is true, it means the restoration of the local market to its old time-glory. The American Tobacco Company has been buying something like 90,000,000 pounds in the country, and an equal amount in the local breaks. Lots of the tobacco troubles have been contributed to the policy of buying in the country. It is believed the withdrawal of these buyers will allay much of the hostility on the part of the growers toward the American Tobacco Company, the common stock advancing from $43 to $51, this gives color to the rumor, as the buying through the local market by the American would mean handsome earnings for the warehouses."—Louisville Times.

A Paying Investment.

Mr. John White, of 38 Highland Ave., Houlton, Maine, says: "Have been troubled with a cough every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50 cent bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, before that was half gone, the cough was all gone. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses once more banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." How to Get Strong.

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to be come strong: He says: "My mother, who is old and was very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters, and I feel it's my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger." Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints. Littell's Liquid Sulphur Stops Itching Instantly

If the trouble is serious it will cure it. If it is not serious but is uncomfortable or unsightly it will cure whatever is wrong.

A Southern Lady Says:

I feel it is my duty to tell you what a blessing Littell's Liquid Sulphur has been to me. For months I was troubled with a breaking out on my face, red, angry looking blotches would grow upon the upper part of my face causing me the greatest humiliation. Having doctor and tried every skin remedy advertised with no improvement whatever I was very discouraged until I obtained a bottle of your Littell's Liquid Sulphur from your demonstrator, last August. My face began to improve immediately and that obstinate breaking out has entirely disappeared. I am, using Littell's Liquid Sulphur and would not be without it under any circumstances. MRS. Laid To Rest.

The sweet little babe of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rowe, coming into their home at 4 o'clock Saturday evening, was laid to rest by hands at 9 o'clock Sunday morning in the beautiful Pythian cemetery, its little newly made grave a mound of beautiful flowers. There is much uneasiness about the condition of good Sister Rowe, who is indeed very low. Sturgis News-Democrat.

LEAVES FOR BOGOTA

Former Senator W. J. Deboe at Head of South American Railroad Enterprise.

Former United States Senator W. J. Deboe, of Marion, who has been here for several days, left today for Bogota, Colombia, where he will take the first steps in the work of building a railroad. Associated with a number of American capitalists, and Senator Deboe believes that he has a proposition that will prove to be a bonanza. There are several Kentuckians interested in the venture, and the company has a capital stock of several million dollar. The Colombian Government will grant concessions that will be valuable, and the railroad will be built without delay.—Louisville Post.

A Star--the Winner.

Miss Carolyn Harris' place on the staff of teachers for the scholastic year in the Marion Graded and High School has been awarded to Miss Mabel Minner, daughter of our esteemed townsman W. E. Minner. It will be remembered, Miss Harris had to give up teaching on account of her health. As soon as the announcement was made that she would not fill her place there were several applicants for the vacancy. The board had a difficult problem before them, as all of those desiring the place were worthy and 'twas only necessary to decide which one was most capable of serving the constituents of the school.

The majority of the board decided that Miss Mabel Minner was the one most worthy of having the place.

Obituary.

On Tuesday June 30th the all-wise Creator in his infinite wisdom, saw fit to commission the death angel to take from our midst, sister Jane Simpson. Sister Simpson for several years had been afflicted so that she could not go about and work for the Master, but thru all these years of afflictions she was patient and cheerful and bore her trials with christian love and fortitude.

Sister Simpson, was 74 years old the 25th day of last September. She gave her heart to God when only a small girl, and shortly after joined the Baptist church at Crooked Creek and remained there until her death. For several years she has been deprived of attending church services, but she always expressed a desire to do something for her creator. She leaves a husband and four children two sisters and one brother to mourn her loss. We can only commend the bereaved ones to him who has said that all things worked together for good to them that love the Lord. This separation should serve only to draw us closer together, closer to him who has said that they may be united in the death angel shall summon them to meet their loved one in the New Jerusalem.

We greatly sympathize with the family in their loss, but while it is their loss it is heaven's gain, and we should be submissive to his will and say blessed be the name of the Lord. We shall sleep but not forever. There will be a glorious dawn. We shall meet to part, no more, in the Resurrection morn.

Miss Maud Wofford, aged thirteen years, killed a gray fox this week. This is how it happened: Maud was walking through the orchard and saw the fox caught in one of her brother's big steel traps. The fox put on a frightful, terrible face as the young lady advanced. Perhaps the fox was thinking of the old joke that women will scream at the sight of a mouse. But Maud's bluff game did not work. Maud seized a strong stick, that lay close by, and dealt a fatal blow to the fox, after he had given numerous snaps and snarls.

The newly elected trustees, of division No. 3, met at the Seminary school house Aug. 26th. The meeting was called to order by Supt. Paris, after which Edgar Smith was elected chairman and J. R. Summer-ville, secretary; Jesse Gahagan was elected by the board for trustee to fill the vacancy in Weston and Green's Chapel. Several interesting talks were made concerning the needs and conditions of the schools in this division. The meeting then adjourned after deciding to meet again some time next spring.

The ten year old son of Lanham happened to be near the residhams Saturday morning. Cy Franklin was driving along the road with a load of water melons, and young Lanham was riding on the wagon—he was probably standing on the melons—when he suddenly lost his balance and started to fall. He would perhaps have fallen clear of the wagon, had he not caught the hind wheel, which threw him over causing the wheel to run over his abdomen, breaking four ribs, and bruising him up badly. Drs. Moreland and Perry were at once summoned. The little fellow was unconscious for several hours, and for a time his death was continuously expected.

Archaeology and Medaeval Researches. By Ripvan Winkle.

On waking I found myself on the green knoll, from whence I had first seen the old man of the glen.

I rubbed my eyes it was a bright sunny morning. The birds were happy and twittering among the bushes and the eagle, or buzzard, was wheeling aloft, and breathing the pure mountain breeze. Surely thought I "I have not slept here all night". I recalled the occasion before I fell asleep. The strange men with the keg of liquor, the mountain ravine, the wild retreat among the rocks the wogone party at nine pins the flagon. Oh! that wicked flagon, thought I what excuse shall I make to Dame Van Winkle? I dreaded to give up my dog Wolf rather than to do it.

I would pay a tax on him. I shouldered my rusty firelock, and with a heart full of trouble and anxiety I turned my steps homeward.

As I approached the village, I met a number of people, but none whom I knew, which somewhat surprised me, for I had myself acquainted with every one in the countryround.

Their dress, too was of a different fashion to that which I was accustomed. I had now entered the outskirts of the village, I was surprised to hear such a commotion, men and women hollowing and shouting at the top of their voices, throwing their fans climbing on fences and back benches and tramping on one another's corns, then I heard some one say in a loud voice, safe at home. I thought they had learned of my returning some time in the latter part of the night.

I looked in the direction from whence the noise. I saw a number of men with peculiar suits on. Four men stood in a row, 3 stood on corners of a diamond shaped plot of ground.

I recognized Hendrick Hudson and crew playing at the game of 9 pins.

One man held a pin in both hands one man stood close by behind him with wire spectacles on. He also had a great poultice on one hand the other two men stood at some distance from the man who held the pin, one of them held a very small ball in one hand, the one behind this one said something and began to take aim at the man who had the ball. When the noise cleared away I saw the man had left the 9 pins lying on the ground and was hurrying away towards where the man to the right was standing on something that reminded me of a dry barrel of rum which seemed to do him a great deal of good. Another man with a dark face and a mustache that reminded one of the horns of the bison reached for him. The man left the rum he had tried so hard to get his foot on and attempted to treat the second man the same way he had the first. But something taken place and all was in an uproar. Then Augustus said all over no more stealing bases around Frankfort. I stood bewildered for a moment and remembering I had been out late turned to a man or boy rather who was cross legged and pouring some saw dust out of a small sack into a piece of paper which I knew belonged to Derrick Van Bummel, the school master, a drapper learned little man.

Through kinder bilious looking, he could spell and read fairly well.

When this boy taken a something out of his pocket and proceeded to burn up this valuable paper, I could not refrain from making some inquiry about my friend Derrick Van Bummel he said he didn't know a man by that name in these diggings.

He said he had heard it said that our storekeeper and ex-representative used to go by that name but since he had raised so fast in politics he was called by the name of our county seat (Marion). When I looked so surprised, he came closer and begged to explain the past until I understood it as well as Hager did last fall. He said ever since Grover Cleveland's days, Van Bummel, the school master, had been coming to the top, round by round, until one day the magistrates court was in "session" on the steps of the little grocery store. It seems that none could read the charge against the accused. The court called for the school master, the jury yawned and the deaf one was signaled to set erect. It seemed that every one knew about the trial. Some time ago the hired man had eloped with the mail carriers daughter. The father of the girl had the young man arrested, but they did not know what kind of a charge to bring against him. The court agreed to leave it to Van Bummel, to instruct the jury. After one hour and a half had been passed in reading and spelling from Blackstone, the schoolmaster laid his book on the door step and said "Gentlemen of the jury it has been a custom in England for time immemorial that if a man steals over one hundred and sixty pounds he is guilty of grand larceny," hold cried the court, bring the aforesaid property of the mail carrier, and we shall see what she will weigh. The girl was placed in the balance, she weighed one hundred and sixty three and one half pounds. Well! said the young man with the lighted piece of paper and saw dust, ever since that time the people around Kneedmoore said Van Bummel would sure go to the legislature and he did go. And now there was strong talk of petitioning him for school trustee. He also said the town had been changed to one of his names and he did not know which was named first Marion Crittenden or Marion Frances.

When I did finally reach home I like

How to Cure Constipation

Simple Home Remedy That Is Safe and Pleasant

Few people escape constipation. Catching cold, over eating, worry, lack of exercise, failure to answer promptly the calls of nature, diseased or weakened system or strong medicines may cause it. The too common practice of taking salts, or pills or some such violent cathartic has always done more harm than good. They make the bowels act quickly and violently simply because they irritate them, and leave them in a worse condition than before.

What is needed is a mild easy herb laxative, that gives regular daily movement in all cases, yet does not pain or gripe, and which will strengthen the bowels and tone up the system instead of depleting it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin taken at night before going to bed will bring an easy pleasant natural movement in the morning even in the most obstinate cases and without any bad effects. No pain, no gripe, and it is so safe and pleasant to take, mothers give it to their babies with splendid results. It is an aid to digestion and tones up the system as well as cures bowel trouble. Dr. L. E. Covey, Savannah, Tenn., writes: "I get better results from it than any Pepsin I ever used." Dr. T. Jones, Osgood, Mo., says: "I consider Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the best of all laxatives." Mrs. Almon Willis, Jamaica, Vt., says: "I truly believe it saved my little boy's life." Rev. A. J. Fletcher, Rutherford, Tenn., says: "I am 80 years old and your Syrup Pepsin has cured me of dyspepsia and bowel trouble."

W. D. Jackson, Burns Station, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with constipation and dyspepsia for nine years, and found no relief until I used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin." All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

We are glad to send a free sample to any reader of this paper who has never used it and will give it a fair trial. Write today to Pepsin Syrup Co., 303 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Knoch Arden, paused at the window looking in upon Dan Van Winkle and the children laughing heartily over an article they had just read in the Crittenden Record-Press about some one having a chip on their back spiling for a fight. Now say Marion, you said I was your old friend and neighbor, I am for a fact, and I will take it as a great favor if you will tell your valiant Knights of the Night, that I am a very conservative kind of a fellow, and it would rasp on my sensitive nature should they call on me in their usual way, tell them that it is hard for me to go to sleep after once being aroused from the first sound slumber of the night. Tell them I am a bold bad man and would be apt to treat their visit with contempt, if knowledge of their approach was found out in time. Tell them I would be apt to slam the front door and go up through the orchard.

Say Marion, let's be careful what we weigh. The way you compare our soldiers who go about with a large colts revolver on and that reminds you a calf with its mother's bell on. If you and other good writers keep on slurring the noble boys they will be ashamed to go to a gathering on the Lord's day. I am a Farmers' Union man, whole sole and part of the upper, and I can't see where there is anything to be gained by arousing the people against the state officials.

Those who have been wrongfully accused of night riding have my heartfelt sympathy. Let's keep party prejudice down.

It is with feelings of deep regret that I observe the literary animosity daily growing between the two great parties of the United States. Great curiosity has been awakened of late with respect to the condition of affairs in Old Kentucky.

This is a state in which one of the greatest political experiments in the history of the world is now performing, and which presents the most profound momentous studies to the statesman and the philosopher. That some men should give prejudiced accounts of affairs in Kentucky is not a matter of surprise. Such persons become embittered against the country on finding that there, as every where else, a man must sow before he can reap; must win wealth by industry and talent; and must contend with the common difficulties of nature, and the shrewdness of an intelligent and enterprising people.

The editors for farmers organizations, above all other writers should be candid and dispassionate. Every one knows the all pervading influence of literature at the present day and how much the opinions and passions of all are under its control. The mere contest of the sword is temporary, and it is the pride of the generous to forgive and forget them; but slanders of the pen pierce to the heart; they rankle longest in the noblest spirit; they dwell ever present in the minds, and render it morbidly sensitive to the most trifling collision. It is but seldom that any one act produces hostilities between two classes, there exist most commonly a previous jealousy and ill will, a predisposition to take offense.

Trace these to their cause, and how often will they be found to originate in the mischievous effusions of mercenary writers, and for ignominious bread concoct and circulate the venom that is to influence the generous and the brave.

I am not laying too much stress upon this point for it implies most emphatically to our particular case.

Over more people does the Press hold a more absolute control than any power in Kentucky. For the universal education of the poorest classes makes every individual a reader. Governed as we are entirely by public opinion the utmost care should be taken to preserve the purity of the public mind. Knowledge is power, and truth is knowledge. Whoever therefore knowingly propagates a prejudice willfully saps the foundation of his country's strength.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, usually point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the stomach, and their weakness, not in the organs itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the greatest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Mink, of 515 N. O. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public."

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst form of female ills. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice. I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. I am now a woman of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Mink, it will do for other suffering women.

It's a pity when sick ones drug the stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves are instead crying out for help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is promptly helping Stomach, Heart and Kidney ailments. The Restorative reaches out for the actual cause of these ailments the failing "inside" nerves. Anyway rest the Restorative 48 hours. WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy And Amritlon Slipping Away.

Marion women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headache, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Marion woman's words.
Mrs. Emma Weldon, living on Salem St., Marion, Ky., says: "Kidney trouble had annoyed me for five years, and had greatly impaired my general health. My back was lame and pained me most of the time. I had frequent headaches and could scarcely see at times. None of the remedies I used seemed to give me any benefit until I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Haynes & Taylor's drug store. The beneficial effect of this remedy was truly marvelous. And after two months there was not a sign of kidney trouble remaining. I often recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and only regret that I did not hear of this remedy sooner as it would have saved me much expense and misery."

Obituary.

On July 26th, 1908, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Edward Robertson, and took the sweet spirit of his dear wife to dwell with the blessed Savior.

Asst Julia was born Nov. 15th, 1872. She joined the M. E. church at Weston when she was fourteen years of age, and lived a true Christian life until death. She was sick six weeks and bore her sickness with Christian fortitude. She was loved by all who knew her and she always had a good word for every one.

It is so hard to part with the one we loved so dear, but God doeth all things well, so let us try to live so we will meet our precious one in that home where no sorrow ever comes.

Though all that loving hands and medical aid could do was done but to no avail. God saw fit to take her for his own. She leaves besides her husband, her father and one sister and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low;
Thou no more will join our number,
Thou no more our song will know,
Yet, again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled,
And in Heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.
Her niece,
WILMA BELT.

Easy Confinement

If you have cause to fear the pains of childbirth, remember that they are due to weakness, or disease, of the woman's organs, and that healthy women do not suffer, like weak ones.

The specific, medicinal, vegetable ingredients, of which that famous, female medicine and womanly tonic

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMAN'S RELIEF

Is composed, will build up the womanly organs to a healthy state and thus prevent needless suffering.

"Before my confinement," writes Mrs. Rose Schubert, of Monument, Colo., "I had such bearing-down pains I didn't know what to do. Cardui quickly relieved me. Some months later I had a fine 12-lb. baby, was sick only thirty minutes, and did not even have a doctor."

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY

WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

REFUSING TO GROW OLD

MEN of forty or fifty who are letting themselves think of themselves as if their days of usefulness were waning need one thing—a new idea of themselves. They need to have their thoughts turned toward a period of greater usefulness still before them. A noted author on his seventieth birthday said: "I expect to do the best work of my life in the years now ahead of me. I have learned that a man may be as young as his thoughts. If he keeps informed on present day ideas, and lives in the present instead of in the past, he need not be an old man at all."

This wholesome spirit would put new life and purpose into many who are letting go of their interest in affairs because they think they are growing old.

I heard the other day of a man who began to study music when he was fifty, and became proficient in it. Another man became a painter of note, although he had not touched a brush until he was forty-eight. Many of the best works of literature have been produced late in life. There are many inspiring examples to encourage those who will consider them.

If ever there was an emancipation idea that needed to be promulgated it is the wholesome doctrine of refusing to grow old. When you hear middle aged men talking of getting old, just advance this doctrine—that a man is as old as he thinks, and that he should keep up with present day thought and look forward to years of usefulness.

Miss Peck Gets 1,200 Feet Nearer The Sky.

Five Miles Up on The Icy Cliffs Of Mount Huascaran.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 26.—Miss Anna S. Peck of Providence, R. I., the mountain climber, signaled at 4 o'clock this afternoon her arrival at an altitude of 25,000 feet on Mount Huascaran, the summit of which is covered with perpetual snow.

The energy displayed by Miss Peck in scaling this mountain has brought forth expressions of astonishment from the natives here. She is accompanied by two trained Alpine climbers.

Miss Peck left N. Y. two months ago to make another attempt to reach the summit of Mount Huascaran. On an earlier trial she was compelled to give up the attempt after reaching a height of 17,500 ft., owing to the cowardice of her guides. By reaching an altitude of 25,000 ft., Miss Peck has ascended higher than any man or woman in the world. The previous record was held by W. W. Graham, who reached a height of 23,800 ft. in the Himalayas.

Miss Peck began her mountain climbing in 1895 when she scaled the Matterhorn. She has also ascended Mount Sorate, in Bolivia, reaching a height of 20,500 feet.

WOMAN FALLS 900 FEET; LIVES

Abbotsford, Wis., Aug. 27.—Dropping through the air, 900 feet, when the rope attached to her parachute snapped, and caught in the branches of a tree 30 feet from the ground where sure death awaited her, had she landed. The branches broke the fall, and the woman was taken from there in an unconscious condition. An examination showed that Mrs. Jones was suffering from several broken ribs and was otherwise internally injured. Physicians state that she will recover.

Astatabula, O., Aug. 29.—The last stone was laid today on contracts for a government breakwater at this harbor. The result is a mile stretch of sea wall that stands 8 ft above low water mark, and affords a safe anchorage for all craft, as well as a protection for the harbor entrance of one of the most important harbors on the Great Lakes, in fact the largest iron ore receiving port in the world.

Vote.
The whistle has blown and each man takes his place
To toll for the world at a death-dealing pace
Each movement is skillful, each brain is alert
While they patiently work in the factory dirt
Just look at that picture and then make a note,
That united they sweat, but divided they vote

The machines and the belts and the shafting are still
And not a wheel turns—there's a strike at the mill
A strike! Every workman has solemnly vowed
To stand by his mates till their claims are allowed

'Tis a brave thing to do, but don't fail to note
That united they strike, but divided they vote

The sun brightly shines as there passes along
In holiday raiment the Labor Day throng
Each man is decked out in his Labor Day best—
"Labor omnia vincit," the banners attest.

Yes, labor may conquer, but never please note,
While united they march, but divided they vote —Elli O Jones

Look around you and note how you and your neighbors divided your votes recently and then compare this with the solidity of the votes of the "united ones"

Organize to Determine Action.

Barish influences in the different departments of the speculative, buying and consuming cotton world are, as usual, getting busy to hammer down the price of cotton for both near and fall months' delivery. There are two arguments now being used to depress the price of cotton, the first, that the consumption of manufactured goods is not satisfactory, owing to continued trade depression in this country; second, that the prospects for a large yield of cotton this year is good in practically all sections of the cotton belt, except Oklahoma (up on these two propositions, the fall months are being hammered, and October deliveries are now around 12 1/2 while December futures are quoted at about 5 cents by the New York cotton exchange. All cotton sold by exporters for delivery in these months is based on New York quotations, and whatever premium the contract between the exporter and the spinner is agreed on, it is several dollars less, are sold on the basis of these figures, every effort will be made to hold down prices until these contracts are liquidated. If the growers begin to rush their cotton to market as usual in September and October it will be impossible to stem the disastrous tide of these depressive influences. If the farmers are not well organized and secure the co-operative strength of the banking and business interests of the South they will have a hard struggle ahead to maintain fair prices.

Lint cotton is worth more than its fair market price today, and it will be worth much more in October than the present future quotations for that month indicate. There must be something done aside from the mere work of organization. That is, of course, the first step, provided organization is based on sound business principles. The business end of marketing cotton is the most vital and important part of the cotton industry to farmers. If the crop is not sold at a profit there is but little satisfaction in the industry.—The Cotton Journal

MARTIAL MORTALS.

The human race is a brave race. It is proved by the fact that it continues to live. While it requires bravery to die, and humanity is so stout hearted it fights the battle of life so long as it can fight. Occasionally a tired, sick hearted one surrenders, but he is the exception. Humanity is brave. Men and women daily face conflicts that might well daunt the intrepid gods. Think you because they go about with smiling faces there are no tasks that test all their fortitude, no sorrows that must be courageously borne?

Here is one fighting to keep in subjection his lower nature. Think of the duels he fights! Who knows the struggles of his doubts, the gallantry of his victories? He is a brave man, as brave as ever couched in lance in rest against a foe. And here is one who tackles the wild beasts in the arena of business competition and one who struggles with a great sorrow.

This woman faces poverty and limitations, or anxiety, or pain, strain on nerve or sympathy. An archangel might well shudder to undertake the whole gamut of suffering that comes with wifehood and motherhood. And there is no shrinking. Woman dies and gives no sign. Woman lives and smiles in the front of Fate.

In this strenuous life of ours the real men and women sleep each night as the soldier sleeps on the battlefield. And revolve wakes each martial mortal to daily battles—some to fight the good fight with hands and some with brains and some with hearts. Look about you. Is it not true? You may even see some who are fighting with broken sword.

Yes, humanity is brave. But it needs to repeat daily the prayer of Robert Louis Stevenson: "The day returns and brings us the round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man; help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces, let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting place weary and content and undishonored and grant us in the end the spirit of sleep. Amen."

The CRITTENDEN RECORD PRESS will be sent to any address, the rest of the year for only 30 cents, provided all arrears are paid to the RECORD PRESS and the Consolidated Crittenden RECORD PRESS, which is a very low rate. Superintendents of Departments at the Kentucky State Fair.

The most competent men available have been appointed superintendents of the various departments. R. H. Lillard of Lawrenceburg has been chosen superintendent for the Horse Department. William Simmons of Shepherdsville, for Mules. John H. Gogd of Louisville, for Horses. Charles A. Hoss and W. C. Cawthon as assistants for Poultry. C. H. Thomas and Z. T. McCabe for Dogs. Selby H. Sale, with William H. Vetter as assistant, for Vegetables and Melons. H. C. Lovelace of Boston, with George D. Karsner of Lexington as assistant, for Field Seed and Grain; H. M. Freeman of Ghent, Ky., for Tobacco. M. F. Johnson of Bluefield, for Horticulture. R. H. Tacke of Lexington, Plants and Flowers. Miss Evelyn Porter of Louisville, with Miss Eva McGraw and Miss Alice Porter as assistants, for Woman's Department. G. P. Rogers of Smithland, and B. W. Neal of Versailles as assistants, for Farm Implements and Machinery. Harry L. Smyser of Lyndon, for Speed Department, and Prof. J. J. Hooper of Lexington for Students' Judging Contest.

HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS.

The seventeen departments have been placed under the management of the various members of the State Board of Agriculture, as follows: M. C. Hankin, Frankfort, Poultry and Pigeons, Horticulture, and Plants and Flowers; M. A. Sevel, Lexington, Dairy Cattle, Sheep and Goats, and Collie Dogs; G. N. McGrew, Bayou, Woman's Department, Farm Implements and Machinery; W. R. Moorhead, Jr., Glendale, Beef Cattle; Guthrie M. Wilson, Bardonia, Horses, Mules and Jack Stock, and Speed Department; Caldwell Norton, Louisville, Swine, Dasha Breckinridge, Lexington, Education; William Addams, Cynthia, Vegetables and Melons, Field Seed and Grain, and Tobacco; John C. Mayo, Palmetto, Minerals and Forestry.

The small farmer or breeder should not fail to enter his products at the Kentucky State Fair. It often thinks there will be so many entries that he will not have a chance for a prize. His neighbor thinks the same. They then feel chagrined when they go to the fair and see someone walk off with a ribbon won on some specimen much inferior to what they own.

For catalogue, entry blanks or other information, write J. W. Newman, Secretary, 220 Paul Jones Building, Louisville, Ky.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR RACES.

Horse racing, always an attraction at a State Fair and more especially at an exhibition held under Southern skies, will be featured more than at any previous State Fair. The new half-mile track, now in process of construction, when completed will be one of the fastest half-mile courses in the country, and there is every indication for a first-class harness race meeting this fall. Four stakes, five purse, and three gentlemen's road races have been announced, in addition to these there will be two running races each day so the Kentuckian who thinks that his day's visit at a fair is incomplete without seeing a first-class horse race will not be disappointed at this year's State Fair. Among the early closing events are the Kentucky Trotters' Association stake for 2 1/2 mile trotters, the Louisville Retail Merchants' Association stake for 2 1/2 mile trotters, and the Louisville Commercial Club stake for 2 1/2 mile trotters. Stake entries closed July 14th. Purse entries close Sept. 7th and entries for the cup races at 12 o'clock the day before the race. The stake races will be contested on the three to five heat plan with a five-best limit and the purse races on the two to three heat plan. It is the ultimate intention of the State Fair management to build a full mile track enclosing the present half-mile course, which, if the hopes of those in charge of the racing program are realized, will compare favorably with the best State Fair mile tracks in the country, and Louisville will doubtless become one of the most popular training grounds in the country.

SPECIAL NIGHTS AT THE KENTUCKY STATE FAIR.

J. V. Beckman, manager of the Retail Merchants' Association of Louisville, is general chairman of the Special Nights Committee, and has been busily engaged for several weeks in arranging the most attractive night programs possible. Monday night will be School Children's Night. Prof. C. H. Mark, superintendent of the Louisville public schools, is chairman of the committee in charge for that night. Tuesday will be German-American Night with Mr. Louis Seidelbach in charge. Wednesday, Labor Night. John Young, president of the Federal Union of Labor chairmen. Thursday, Military Night. Col. W. B. Haldeman, commander of the First Kentucky regiment, chairman. Friday, Irish-American Night. Thomas McCabe, chairman. Saturday, Farewell Night. W. A. Robinson, chairman. The show rings on Saturday will be especially interesting on account of the various horse championships being awarded that day.

MACHINERY EXHIBITS AT THE STATE FAIR.

An unusually large exhibit of farm implements and machinery is in prospect. Owing to the incompleteness of the State Fair the exhibitors of this department do not share the same advantages afforded them by some of the older institutions in the way of large machinery halls, but every other facility and accommodation will be at their disposal. Congregious space will be assigned to this department, and already a large number of applications are on file, including manufacturers of engines, pumps, stock scales, tanning, milks, road machines, wheelbarrows, harvesting machines, harrows, mowers, planters, plows, and every implement used by the farmer. The farmer who desires to be instructed in the use of better methods and better machinery will have a great object lesson before him at this fair.

COLLIE DOGS AT THE STATE FAIR

The collie dog exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair promises to be a greater attraction than ever before. A new departure, one entirely original, and the first ever held in this section will be a sheep trial given by an expert which will show the usefulness of the collie to the farmer. A creditable show of this nature will appeal to every collie fancier as four points are to be gained by owners toward championship medal by American Kennel Club. It is expected that this year's show will bring out 150 collies including many famous Eastern dogs. The sheep trial will be started by expert Eastern dogs. Any farmer in the state desiring to train up his dogs along this line and then compete, will be eligible.

STUDENTS' JUDGING CONTEST.

Following a plan devised by the old state fair institutions of the country and one that has proved eminently successful at all the great Western fairs as well as a progressive step in the interests of agricultural education, Commissioner Rankin has offered $100 in cash for a scholarship to the Agricultural Department of the State Fair. The winner for the coming year under twenty years of age is doing the best work in livestock judging at the Kentucky State Fair of 1908, contestant to be required to submit a written opinion with the reasons therefor on horses, cattle, swine and sheep exhibits. For further information and entry blanks, send a note to substantiating the same to points.

The Kentucky State Fair management has arranged a free amusement program which alone is worth the price of admission.
